scholarship from the Department of Paediatrics and Institute of Child Health, of Birmingham University, during part of the time that these investigations were in progress. These awards are gratefully acknowledged.

The co-operation of the ward sisters has been invaluable in enabling this work to be carried out, and Mr. J. G. Williamson, the hospital photographer, has been of great assistance in preparing the diagrams.

The hydrolysed casein used in the investigation was supplied in part by the Medical Research Council and in part by the manufacturers.

REFERENCES

Correction:—Messrs. Wm. R. Warner, London, point out that 'beminal' which was referred to on p. 169 of the September issue is not marketed by their American company, Warner Bros., U.S.A., but by Ayerst, McKenna and Harrison of Montreal.